What we did

Improve awareness

Refined messaging above the fold with less visual distractions to clearly indicate that emails can be summarized before reading in full.

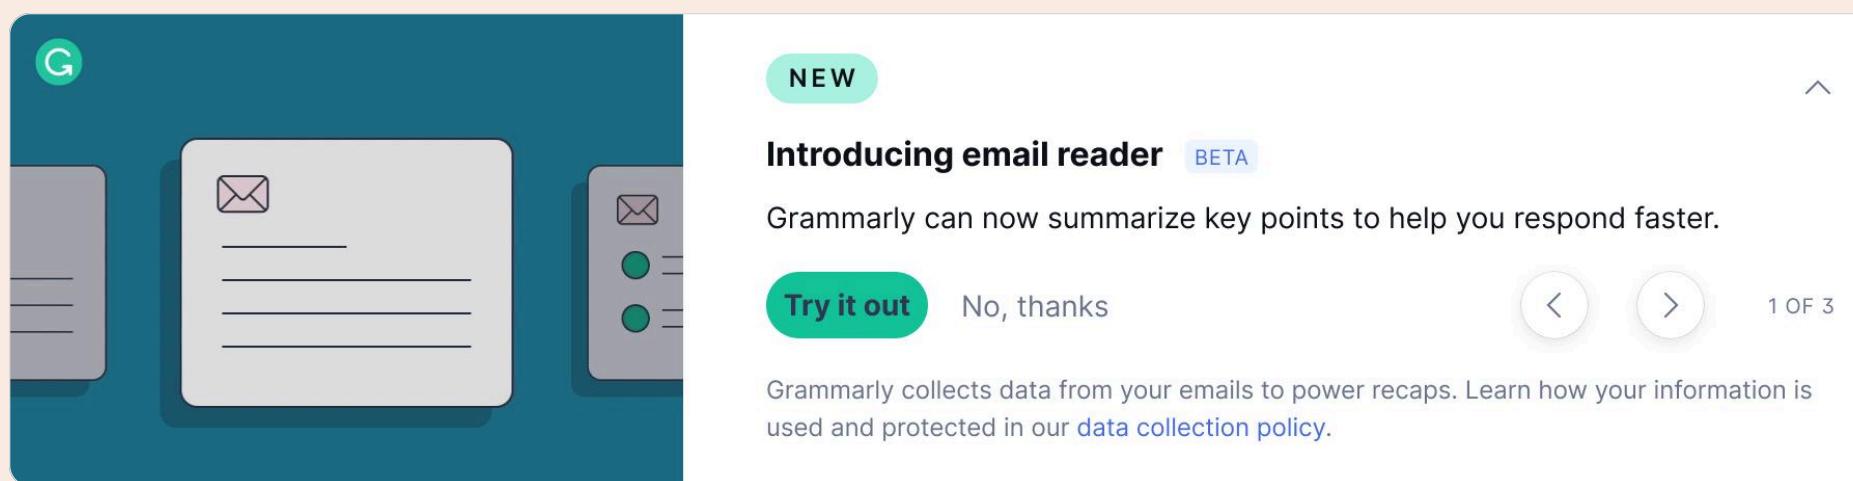

What we did

Build trust

Streamlined messaging above the fold to clearly indicate email summarization before reading, reducing visual distractions.

What we did

Reduce complexity

Data showed that 84% of daily emails were new, and 86% of all emails were read only once. This aligned with our human insights, leading us to remove less valuable features.

Before

The 'Before' state shows a complex interface with several features:

- A vertical sidebar on the left contains a 'Pinned' section with bullet points: 'Ability to save bullet points for later' and 'Thread summaries Ability to summarize older messages in the thread'.
- The main area has tabs for 'Messages' and 'Pinned'. The 'Pinned' tab is selected, showing a pinned message from Brooklyn Garcia dated May 04.
- The message content includes a 'SUMMARY' section: "Brooklyn Garcia is a friend of your business partner, Joey Whistler. Joey asked if I am interested in connecting with you on possible collaborations for a couple of commercial buildings' interior design."
- A 'FOLLOW-UPS' section contains a checkbox: "Let me know what works for you."

After

The 'After' state shows a simplified interface where several features have been removed:

- The vertical sidebar's 'Pinned' section and 'Thread summaries' feature are removed.
- The 'Follow-ups' section is simplified, showing only the checkbox: "Let me know what works for you."
- The bottom of the screen displays standard email controls: 'Copy all' and 'Reply'.

After

The screenshot shows a Gmail inbox with 16 messages. The current message is from Brooklyn Garcia, dated May 04, 2022, at 3:26PM. The message subject is "Interior design consultation - Brooklyn Garcia". The message content is displayed in a "READER" view, which includes a list of bullet points and a "Follow-ups" section with a checkbox. A hand cursor is hovering over the three-dot menu icon in the bottom right corner of the message card.

Hello Riley,

This is Brooklyn Garcia. I am a friend of your business partner, Joey Whistler. A couple of days ago Joey asked if I am interested in connecting with you on possible collaborations for a couple of commercial buildings' interior design. I'd like to reach out to introduce myself and let you know I am open to discuss further if you are in need of interior design consultation.

Ability to quickly share knowledge with peers

Next step

Expand Reader to triage business documents and text messages, reducing information overload

Prepare research plan to identify pain points and use cases for long-form reading

The screenshot shows a document editor window with a toolbar at the top. The main content area displays a document titled "Project Tiger Marketing Doc". The document discusses the features and benefits of Project Tiger, mentioning secure sharing, access control, and integration with Project Alpha. It also outlines a marketing strategy with five points: Build Awareness, Targeted Advertising, Referral Programs, Content Marketing, and Thought Leadership.

A callout bubble labeled "B" is positioned on the right side of the document, containing the text "Pull in context from other communication form". Another callout bubble at the bottom right contains a message from Brooklyn Garcia: "Brooklyn Garcia asked you to review this proposal. View original email".

A sidebar on the right provides a summary of the document, links to "Create outline" and "About this document", and a section for "Common questions" with links to "What is Project Alpha?", "How does Referral program work?", and "Ask other questions". A text input field "Tell us to..." is also present in the sidebar.
